

THE HOLOCAUST, THEIR FAMILY, ME AND US

#HtFMeUs – an immersive,
enriching, collaborative schools Holocaust education project.

A project for schools in the UK, based on the award-winning documentary series "My Family, the Holocaust and Me", directed by David Vincent.

'This project brings the past to our present and can help shape a better future.'
Robert Rinder MBE

Enables & supports young people to understand family experiences in the Holocaust, with the help of families, historians and experts.

'I have been inspired by the varied routes of research and the imagination that has been ignited.'
Louisa Clein

Supports young people in making use of archive material, documentary evidence and the reflections of second- and third-generation descendants of Holocaust victims and survivors: it humanises the history.

'Seeing students and teachers engaging with the family story has had a personal and far wider impact too.'
Noemie Lopian

Gives young people an opportunity to reflect on the legacies of the Holocaust and their significance in the modern world, and to develop a sense of themselves as global citizens in the context of this history.

'The project has become part of my meaning and purpose.'
Bernie Graham

This project would not be possible without the express support of the families featured in the documentaries, the generosity and permission of BBC/Wall to Wall Media, the filmmakers, experts featured in the programmes, partners the Pears Foundation, UCL CfHE & the '45 Aid Society.

THE HOLOCAUST, THEIR FAMILY, ME AND US

#HtFMeUs provides coordinating teachers, teaching assistants and support workers with foundational resources, materials and support they need to embark on the project and regular unique opportunities to engage with their project 'family'.

'Being involved in this project has given our students a chance to showcase that everything really is possible'. L Morgan, Venturers Academy

#HtFMeUs currently supports over 300 secondary schools across the country, with an innovative new approach in Holocaust education. Welcoming schools from the independent and state sectors, and SEND and Alternative Provision, this project is diverse and inclusive.

#HtFMeUs supports young people to take a learning and reflective 'journey', following a Holocaust story closely, to develop a deep understanding of the history and the legacy of the Holocaust in the years since.

'Schools MUST get involved. By learning about the past, young people help share a better future.' S Logan, Malet Lambert

We firmly believe that quality provision for and experience of Holocaust education is a right for all learners. This inclusive project supports student exploration of the family stories and stories - we know - have the power to change the way we think, feel and act.

This project would not be possible without the express support of the families featured in the documentaries, the generosity and permission of BBC/Wall to Wall Media, the filmmakers, experts featured in the programmes, partners the Pears Foundation, UCL CfHE & the '45 Aid Society.
